The present is simply against the present continuous - form present simple - short forms We usually use short forms in colloquial English. Do not - does not represent continuously - short forms We usually use short forms in colloquial English. I'm not m is not - it's not/don't are not/not present just against the present continuous - use the real simple use of habits or situations that occur regularly We use present just to talk about the actions that we do (about we do not) regularly: I wash my hair every day. I never go to the library. Sometimes I go to the library. Constant situations or things that are usually or often true I don't drink coffee. She's very tall. I have two brothers. The water boils at 100 degrees. I love soup. Frequency adverbs We often use present simple with adverbs frequency (always, sometimes, etc.) and frequency expressions (once every three months, twice a week, every other day, etc.). The adverbs of the frequency are in the middle position (before the main verb or after). She doesn't eat hamburgers often. Usually he gets up very early. I'm never late. Expressions of frequency go at the end of the sentence We go to the movies once a month. I buy clothes twice a year. Future events that are planned We use the present just to talk about future events that are planned or planned. The train departs at 4. Stores close at 6. My yoga class is tomorrow at 10. The real continuous use of Action in Progress We use the present continuous talk about things that are happening now or around now (time around this moment, such as in these days, weeks or months), I can not speak know. I'm brushing my teeth. I finished The Lord of the Rings, and now I'm reading a new book. Temporary Action This Continuous is used to talk about temporary actions: I'm going to work on the bus this week because my car is in the garage. I live with my cousins until I find an apartment. With expressions meaning now or around now. The present continuous often appears next to expressions such as these days, this week/month, or at the moment. He's learning a lot this week. I don't feel very well these days. Situations that change or develop The climate is changing very quickly. More and more people are trying to eat healthier now. Your English is improving. Future Arrangements We use present continuously to talk or ask about future actions that are already planned or resolved. I'm meeting John tonight. Do you want to go? We leave tomorrow at 7. The walled verbs of non-action verbs (or stative verbs) cannot be used in the current continuous. They should be used now simply. The most frequent verbs are the verbs of the senses (hear, see, smell, look, seem, sound), verbs of opinion treat as, love, hate, prefer, think, etc.) verbs of possession (to have, own, belong, etc.). Other common verbs are not actions: agree, be, depend, need, mean remember, understand, recognize seems to want, etc. Please give me my money; I need it. Have to. Look at it; she seems sad. Some verbs have an action and a value not of action; for example, there is or think: I have a car (possession) / I have a siesta (action) I think it is great (opinion) / What do you think? The action) see verb also has a dynamic and stative value. I'm seeing the doctor tomorrow at 9. What do you see in this picture?
